

Hi Everyone! I hope you had a lovely Valentine's Day!
Still in the mood for a little romance?

Did you know that February is Creative Romance Month?
Every guy can handle candy and flowers, but could yours come up with ideas like the ones below? Slip him this list, or take the initiative and romance your partner instead!

Ten Creative Ways to Be Romantic

1. Create a love coupon book as a creative gift for your partner. The coupons can be for sexual favors, back rubs, a day off from chores your partner hates--be creative!
2. Plan a staycation and book a room at a nice hotel in town. Arrange to have your partner meet you there and surprise them with a bottle of champagne.
3. Attach a love note to a piece of chocolate and hide it in your partner's lunch bag.
4. Schedule a day where you both "call in sick" and enjoy the day relaxing together at home.
5. Spend a tech-free night together without any distractions from your phone, computer, or tablet.

6. Spread a blanket out on the grass in your yard and look up at the stars together.
7. Slow dance in the living room one night (music optional).
8. Look up different things to do or events going on in your city one weekend and send your partner a list of activities for them to choose from.
9. Give your partner a home spa experience. Essential oils, relaxing music, a bubble bath, candles, and some wine (the rest I leave up to your imagination!).
10. Recreate your first date.

Just Breathe

As I mentioned a few newsletters ago, my next book will be a standalone New Adult Romance. After a bit of a hiatus, I'm finally back to writing and making good progress. I've got 36K so far, with a target of 80-90K. No dates to announce yet, because that's what brings on the stress! I'll keep posting updates as I write, and maybe some pictures and excerpts too!

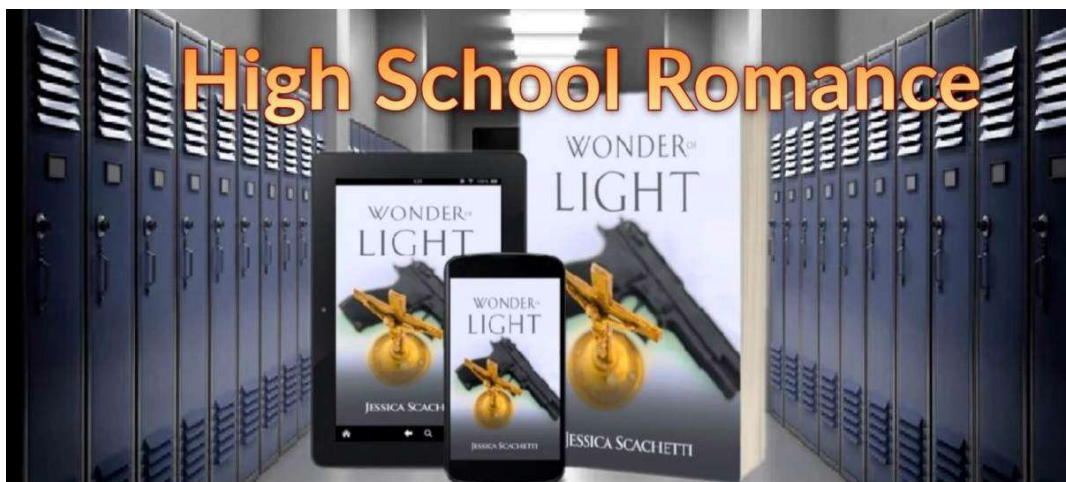

It's Murphy time! Today we have a closeup of his ice blue eyes, a picture of him in one of his favorite places (a Cheezit box in the pantry, which we now leave in there empty just for him), and a shot of him all comfy and stretched out. He trusts us with his belly, and he's getting so big! More Murphy to come next month!

Come Back Tomorrow and The Lie That Binds are featured in four promotions this month:
